

MOM-MOBILE CELEBRATES SECOND BIRTHDAY

Valentine's Day was special for the School of Nursing as the innovative and successful MOM Project celebrated its second birthday. MOM (Maternity Outreach and Mobilization) has helped nearly 750 women deliver healthier babies in its two-year history and helped Indianapolis combat one of the highest black infant mortality rates in the U.S. The project provides care coordination teams and the MOM-mobile, which allows the program to go to the neighborhoods where those services are most needed. The MOM Project is receiving national attention for its achievements.

NURSING SCHOOL, WALTHER INSTITUTE JOIN CANCER RESEARCH EFFORT

Smith

The School of Nursing and Walther Cancer Institute (WCI) have joined a partnership with five cancer care centers, including Riley Hospital for Children, to develop a program of cancer care research. New faculty member Roberta Smith is the first director of the program and is the school's first Mary Margaret Walther Professor of Nursing. The program is named for the late wife of Dr. Joseph E. Walther, WCI's founder. It combines basic and laboratory research, clinical medical research to develop innovative cancer treatments and cancer care research to find ways of helping patients and families cope with the disease. Besides Riley, other centers involved include Methodist Hospital, Community Hospitals of Indianapolis, St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Lafayette and Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia. — Sandy Matthys Roob

AWARD-WINNING POET HEADLINES AFRO-AMERICAN STUDIES EVENT

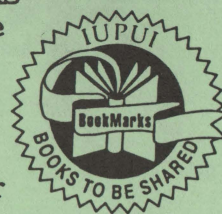

Sonia Sanchez, an activist from the 1960s and winner of the 1985 American Book Award, will appear Mar. 5 as a guest of the Afro-American Studies Department. Sanchez will speak at 8 p.m. in IE 102, followed by a question-and-answer session. The event is free and open to the public. Sanchez won the 1985 award for her book "Homegirls & Handgrenades," one of 12 she has written.

LILLY FELLOWSHIP ENABLES LITTLE TO STUDY AFRICAN-AMERICAN LIFE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Afro-American Studies director Monroe H. Little Jr. will be busy the next few months as he coordinates the publication of the first annual "The State of Black Indianapolis." The report, supported by one of 10 Lilly Endowment Faculty Open Fellowships, will take an in-depth look at issues affecting the lives of Afro-Americans in the Hoosier state capital. It is modeled after the national "The State of Black America" report delivered annually by the national Urban League, and the 1993 release of Little's information will be timed to coincide with the national effort. Little will be working with groups both on and off the campus in gathering information about such topics as housing, education, the relationship between blacks and the criminal justice system, the relationship between philanthropic groups and African Americans, the cultural status of blacks in the arts, African-American art and culture, health care and politics.

FILM BASED ON MARQUEZ MASTERPIECE SCHEDULED

BookMarks will present "Erendira," the only film ever made of the works of Gabriel Garcia Marquez, at a 4 p.m. showing Mar. 11 in CA507. The film is based on a section of his masterpiece "One Hundred Years of Solitude." Lucila Mena will head the event, which is sponsored by the IUPUI Alumni Association and is open to anyone interested.

BookMarks also is urging anyone interested in seeing and hearing Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Gwendolyn Brooks to the Mar. 9 session of L105 in BS 2003. She will be featured in a meet-the-author session in the class, which runs from 2:30-3:45 p.m. She also will read some of her works at 7 p.m. that night at the Madame Walker Urban Life Center.

HINE TO BE HONORED BY INDIANA DENTAL GROUP

Chancellor emeritus Dr. Maynard K. Hine, the first chancellor of IUPUI and former dean of the School of Dentistry, will be honored with a special lectureship by the Indiana Section of the American College of Dentists Mar. 6-7 at the school. The guest lecturer will be Dr. Harald Loe, director of the National Institute of Dental Research. The lecture is part of the school's continuing education effort. Events include a reception Mar. 6 at the Columbia Club, plus the lecture and a luncheon Mar. 7 at the school. There is a fee for each event. For more, call 4-7782.

CAMPUS TRAFFIC HIT BY I-65 CONSTRUCTION RESTRICTIONS

People who travel to and from the campus via I-65 will have to make adjustments in their routes beginning Mar. 15 due to ramp construction work. The Illinois Street, 10th Street, 21st Street and 29th/30th Street ramps onto north-bound I-65 will be closed from March 15 through November. The south-bound I-65 off-ramps at 21st Street and 10th Street will be closed March 15 through June. The Indiana Department of Transportation is promoting Martin Luther King Drive as the best alternate route from the city's north side. On south-bound I-65, drivers can exit just north of 30th Street and get directly onto MLK Drive. Going north, drivers should take MLK Drive to 38th Street, then west to the I-65 on-ramp near Lafayette Square. For more information, contact the department at 232-5115.

HINE MEDAL TO HONOR FORMER CHANCELLOR'S SERVICE

Irwin

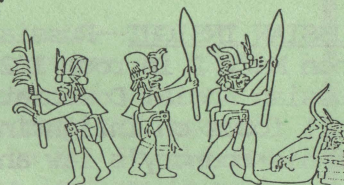

More than a half-century of service to IU and IUPUI will be rewarded Mar. 5 when Glenn W. Irwin, Jr., M.D., chancellor emeritus of IUPUI, is presented the Maynard K. Hine Medal at the IUPUI Alumni Leadership Dinner. The annual award is given to honor significant contributions to the campus. Irwin, professor and dean emeritus of the School of Medicine, took over the school in 1965, then led the university from 1973 to 1986. During his tenure, the link between IU and Purdue was forged and more than $400 million was invested in IUPUI facilities.

For more information, call 4-8828.
